

If money were no problem
and I could have five super-fabulous gifts for Christmas, I'd like . . .

If money were no problem
and I could have
five super-fabulous gifts for Christmas, I'd like . . .

1. A new, red Honda CRV, with all the bells and whistles.
2. An antique ring, with diamonds and sapphires.
3. An all-expenses paid trip to England.
4. An oak dining room table that seats 12 people.
5. A new Apple computer, with the largest screen available.

Wishful Thinking Writing Prompt Craftivity

Cut squares out of a variety of colors of construction paper. You could also cut some out of Christmas wrapping paper, and then have students glue the wrapping paper to the construction paper square. With the wrapping paper side face down, students fold the corners over, so that they will “pop open” to reveal their writing prompt inside the “gift”.

I’ve included this diagram to give you a pattern for the large square, as well as a guide of where the students should fold their paper to make the “gift” portion that it will open up.

For a terrific 3D bulletin board, buy a package of bows at The Dollar Store, and put one on the top of each “gift”.

If money were no problem
and I could have
five super-fabulous gifts for Christmas, I'd like . . .

Remember to be specific and use descriptive adjectives.

Prioritize your list, by putting the item you'd like the most first.

Color the package your favorite colors.

If money were no problem
and I could have
five super-fabulous gifts for Christmas, I'd like . . .

1. A new, red Honda CRV, with all the bells and whistles.
2. An antique ring, with diamonds and sapphires.
3. An all-expenses paid trip to England.
4. An oak dining room table that seats 12 people.
5. A new Apple computer, with the largest screen available.

If money were no problem
and I could have
five super-fabulous gifts for Christmas, I'd like ...

1. A new, red Honda CRV, with all the bells and whistles.
2. An antique ring, with diamonds and sapphires.
3. An all-expenses paid trip to England.
4. An oak dining room table that seats 12 people.
5. A new Apple computer, with the largest screen available.