

Barrel Of Monkeys Counting Activities

©TeachWithMe.com

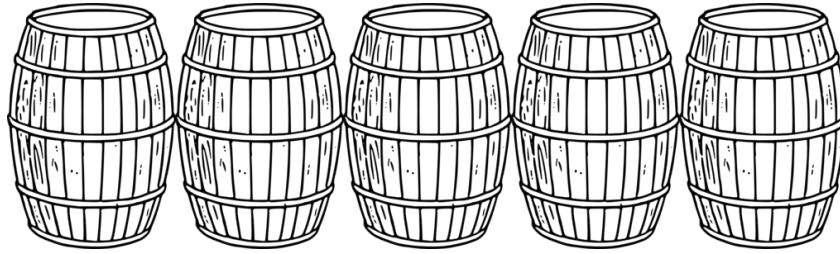

Materials:

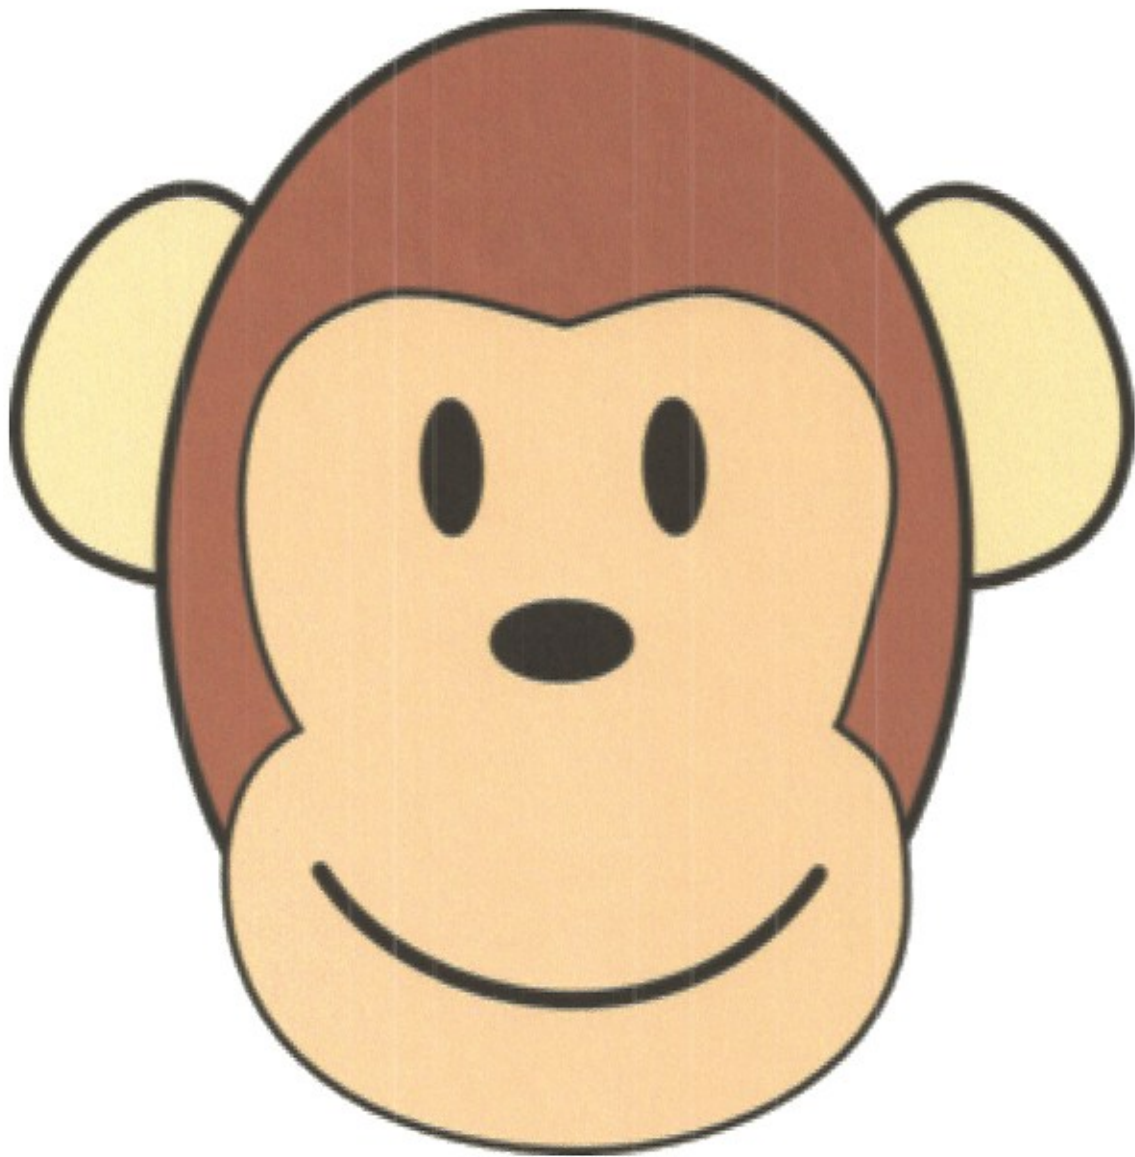

- White construction paper or cardstock, brown construction paper
- Scissors
- Glue stick
- Laminator
- Markers or crayons
- Optional: Wiggle eyes and glue dots.

Directions:

1. Run off the large barrel on brown construction paper and cut out.
2. Run off the monkey face on card stock or white constructions paper.
3. Cut the head out and glue it to the barrel.
4. Laminate the two pieces together.
5. Slit the barrel; attach a large Baggie to the back.
6. Students feed the monkey the various traceable number cards as they count by 1's, 2's, 3's, 5's and 10's.
7. This is yet another fun way to review and reinforce those standards.
8. Run off whatever number cards you want to work on with your students.
9. Children trace the numbers, cut out the cards and sequence them.
10. They can use them as flashcards, or add a cover to make an Itty Bitty booklet.
11. Make extra sets on two different colors and play Memory Match games.
12. Play "I Have; Who Has?" i.e. "We are going to count by 10's. I have 10 who has the next number?"
13. Run off a class set of the smaller barrels on brown construction paper, laminate and cut them out.

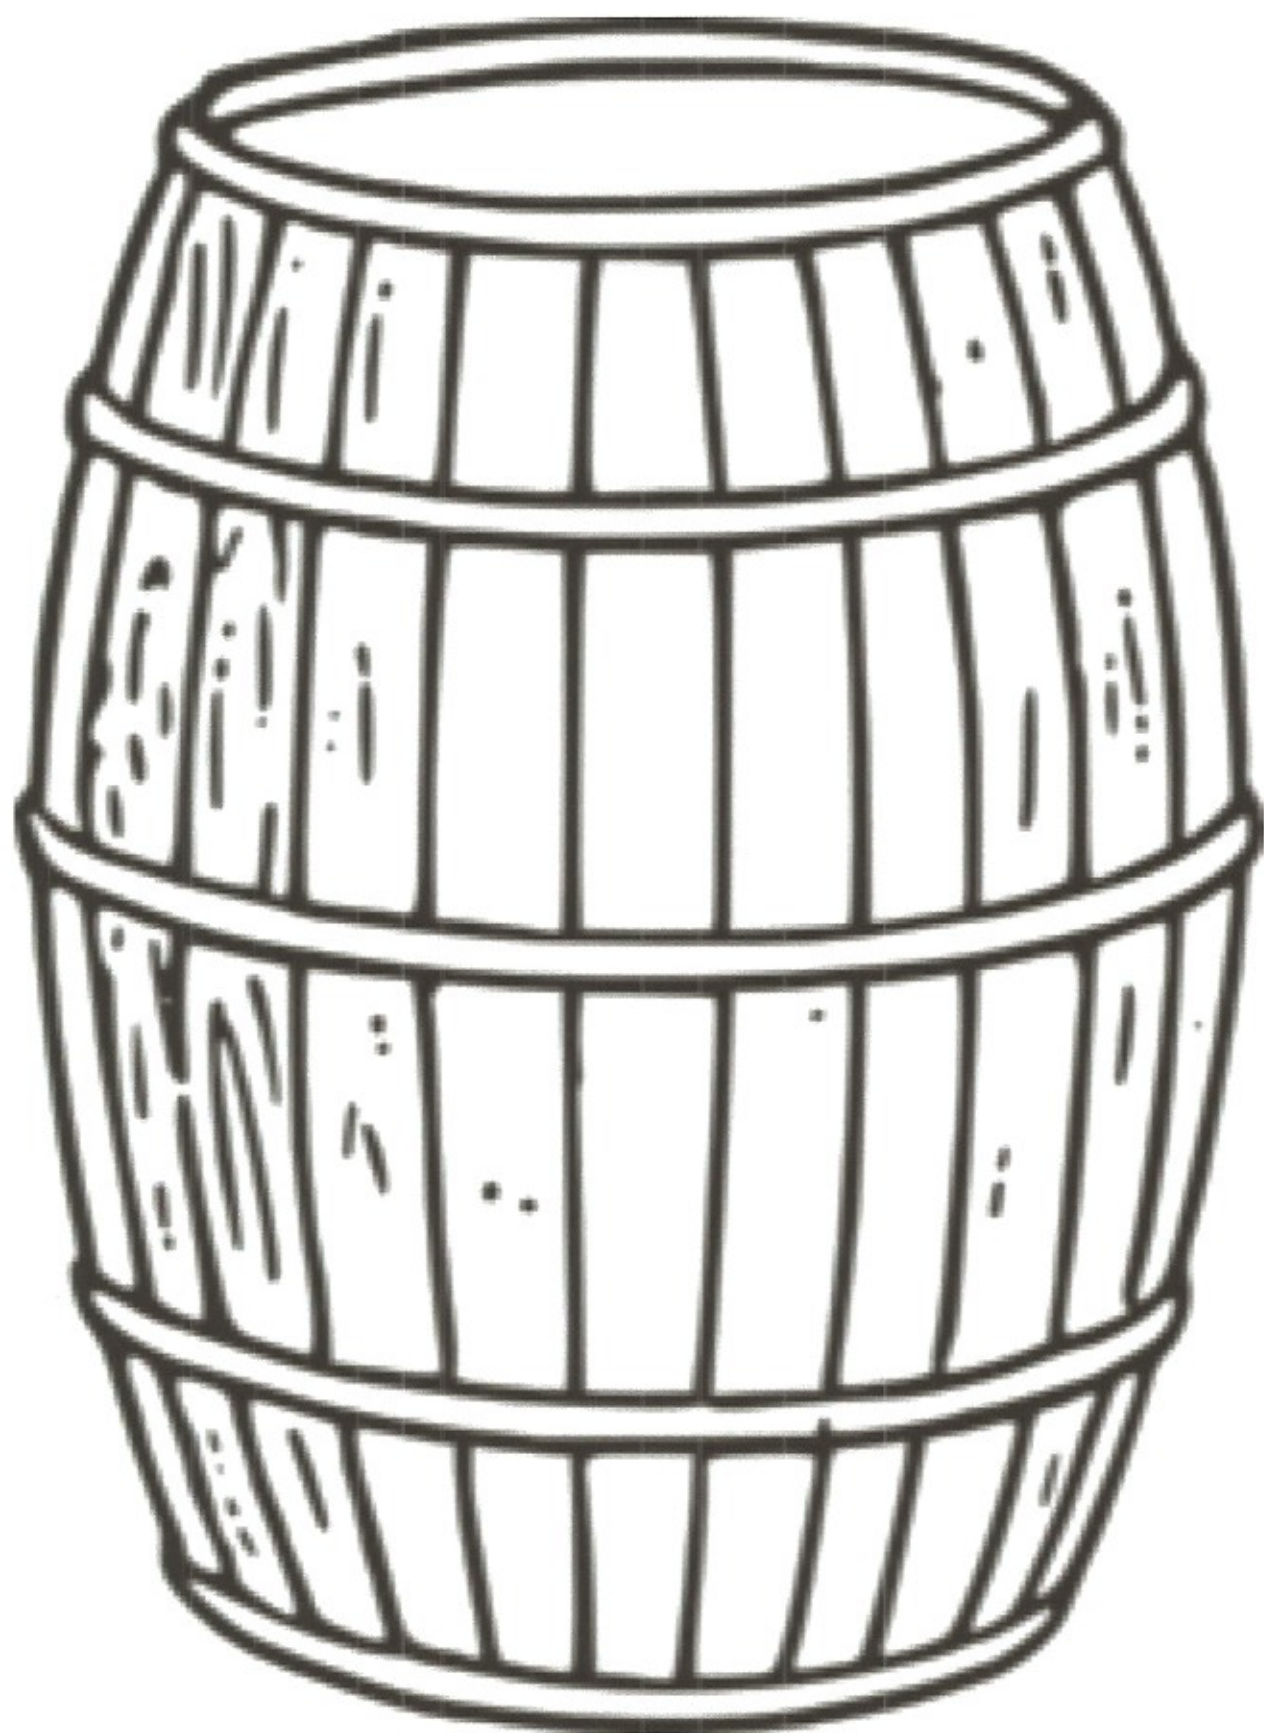

14. These will be the mats for the Barrel of Fun partner game.
15. Student choose a partner and pass out all of the cards.
Children each flip over a card.
16. The lowest number card gets to skip count from that number up to how high you are supposed to count.
17. i.e. the children are counting with the 5's cards.
18. The 2 cards that are flipped are a 10 and a 25.
19. The player 10 gets to count 1st: 10-15-20-25 etc. They will count all the way to 100.
20. If they get it right, they get both the 10 and 25 card.
21. If they get it wrong the other person gets a chance to count.
22. If they get it right they get the cards.
23. Children continue to flip cards 'til there are none left.
