

Diane
is 100

days
smarter!

Happy 1 🍏 🍏 Day! Happy 1 ♥ ♥ Day!

This quick and easy center makes an awesome bulletin board, or punch a hole in the top corners, slide a piece of yarn through and you've got lovely banners to hang back-to-back from the ceiling or as a border along the top wall of your hallway.

Simply set up a table with a variety of punches, this could also be done with stamps or stickers.

Inform your students that the things they cut out or stamp will take the place of zeros, and that they will also need to make a 1 to go in front.

Since my punches are large, I cut construction paper banners that were 5 ½ x 11 ½. Make yours smaller if you're using stamps or stickers. These will make cute bookmarks.

To expedite things and make the banners pop, I made up labels. You could also have your students practice their writing skills and have them write at the top and bottom of their banners.

I'm posting the label templates in DOC format so that you can simply type in something else if you want.

Highlight my name and type in your students' names. Put Avery labels in your printer (my printer has them face-down) and click print. I do ONE sheet at a time. Click on the link to view/print the labels.

Put your labels at the center. Students find their name, peel and stick!

Because this is not a PDF file I can't load it here in this file. Click on the link in the shopping cart to go to the BLOG article to retrieve the 2 DOC's so you can make your labels. 😊